STATE TO BUILD ITS SHARE EAST SECOND PAVING

Abandonment of Improvement By City Not To Stop State Dept.

In spite of the fact that the city council abandoned plans for widening and repaving of East Second street, to be jointly paid for by the State Highway Department and the city, it appears that the state plans to proceed at once with their part of the improvement without further delay. Mayor George Dixon is in receipt of the following communication from E. D. Dryfoose, state engineer, a copy of which has also been forwarded to District Engineer O. F. Goeke of the local highway department offices.

"The department has approved plans for route 2, Section 39 W2, which consists of a joint improvement in Dixon on Second street from Artesian Place to Steele avenue. The Honorable George C. Dixon, Mayor, has replied to Mr. Sheets' letter of August 19 by stating that the city had abandoned this project.

"Will you therefore kindly make the survey and prepare plans for our portion of this improvement on the basis of a 20-foot concrete pavement having an interior thickness of seven inches and utilizing one-half inch bituminous joints to 30 foot centers. Any portion of our existing pavement outside of the 20 foot area and within the curb lines which is destroyed due to our construction operations should be replaced by the department."

The city council voted to abandon the East Second street improvement of state highway route 2, known also as the Black Hawk street, when property owners presented a blanket objection to the proposed street widening and repaving.

Plan North Galena Work

The board of local improvement and the city council last evening voted to originate a scheme and adopted resolutions and an ordinance to provide for the improvement of North Galena avenue from Lincoln Statue Drive, formerly Water street, north to Evergreen street. The state will contribute a 20 foot concrete slab through the two blocks, removing the old street car rails and ties and the city proposes to surface the present brick from the edge of the new cement slab to the curb line with a tar dressing similar to that which has been used on South Galena avenue this summer.

The council adopted a resolution transferring from the public benefit to the civic fund, the sum of $2,500 to be used in meeting a deficit in the original $6,000 appropriation and to be repaid upon the collection of the special bond tax.

Ecuador's Revolt Of Four Days Ends

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Aug. 31—(AP)—Ecuador's four days of virtual civil war came to an end today after 500 men had been slain in intense fighting around Quito, the capital.

The government announced that the rebellious conservatives had laid down their arms in full surrender and that loyalists troops would assume control of Quito today after two days of sanguinary fighting.

The rebel command gave up, the government said, when it became apparent that the loyalists were about to capture Bolivar barracks, tactical key to the city, and after foreign diplomats had launched insistent petitions.

Meanwhile both Acting President Baquero Moreno and his opponent, Nepalli Bonifaz, whose followers started the revolt, were believed in hiding.

Death Warrant For Reichstag Is In Readiness

Berlin, Aug. 31—(AP)—The Junker Chancellor, Franz von Papen, returned to the capital today with a blanket death warrant for the new Reichstag in his pocket, and permission to use the document the minute the government's economic program is threatened.

The warrant was in the form of an emergency decree signed without delay by President Paul von Hindenburg even before the infant Parliament officially had seen the light of day.

The Chancellor came back from East Prussia to confer with the cabinet on his economic program, which contemplates risking more than $500,000,000 in tax refunds on the imminent return of prosperity. Employment would be furnished nearly 2,000,000 if the plan were to be utilized completely.

In an effort to give off dissolution and neutralize the Chancellor's talks with the President at the latter's country residence near Neudeck, East Prussia, the newly elected Nazi president of the Reichstag, Hermann Wilhelm Goerring, telegraphed for an immediate audience with the Chief Executive.

The President has not yet replied. Herr Goerring adjourned the Reichstag, organized yesterday until it should be called, which probably will be next week, possibly Saturday. The new Prussian Landtag, which also met yesterday, was adjourned until Sept. 29.

Will Be Climax Murder Trial Of Mrs. Dorothy Pollak

Chicago, Aug. 31—(AP)—The little, brown-haired knife with which "Poor Joe" Pollak did or did not threaten his wife became a large issue today in the Dorothy Pollak murder trial.

The detective who rushed to the Pollak home July 27 in answer to the pretty brunette's telephone call: "I've just shot my husband" testified he could find no such knife in the house.

Then the state introduced Mrs. Pollak's statement to the police. She asked her husband where he had been, was told it was "none of your business," and then:

JUMPERS GIVE SPECTATORS AT RACES A THRILL

"Spud" Manning Caused Crowd At Cleveland To Hold Breath

Cleveland, Aug. 31—(AP)—Two more planes were qualified for the Labor Day high speed race closing the national air races today when Robert L. Hall, Springfield, Mass., averaged 222.97 miles an hour and Ben O. Howard, Chicago-Kansas City mail pilot, averaged 213.855 miles an hour.

Hall, flying a Gull-Wing monoplane of his own design, reached a maximum of 245.799 miles an hour on one of the four dashes over the three kilometer straightaway but was forced to cut his speed on the other dashes when the streamlined cowl around his engine came loose.

Howard, flying the second of his little white racers, attained a high speed on one lap of 219.855 miles an hour. The mail pilot yesterday qualified the first of his stable with an average of 204.068 miles an hour.

Of all the thrills of the National Air Races, probably none gives the spectators such breath-taking anxiety as the daring leaps of the parachute jumpers.

Though many of the world's greatest fliers make their planes do tricks that even birds can't equal, it's the boys who jump out who give the crowds their greatest "kick."

And of all the jumpers, none have made the air race crowds gasp like H. E. (Spud) Manning, who plunges two miles downward in a death-defying leap before he opens his parachute.

Manning was in fine form yesterday and leaped from an auto-gyro at 11,000 feet, with a bag of flour in his arms. Gathering velocity each fraction of a second, he shot toward the ground, marking his progress by releasing a trail of flour.

Rolling over and over in the air, Manning dropped to within 800 feet of the ground, before he pulled the cord which opened the umbrella-like fabric above his head. He landed a few moments later, unharmed, while the thousands of spectators arose and cheered.

HOPES AROUSED

Carnarvon, Wales, Aug. 31—(AP)—Authorities here are keeping a close watch along the North Wales coast and at Cardigan Bay for possible traces of the missing trans-Atlantic fliers, Clyde Lee and John Bochkon, as a consequence of a report that an airplane motor had been heard on the night they were due over England.

An automobile association scout inspector reported that on Friday night, while he was walking with his wife on the shore of Cardigan Bay he distinctly heard the drone of a powerful airplane engine.

It appeared to come from some distance at sea. He heard it for several minutes and then it stopped suddenly.

Lee and Bochkon took off from Barre, Vt., on August 23 for Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, whence they intended to fly to Oslo. They felt Harbor Grace on the following day and since then there has been no word of them.

Driverless Auto Crashed Into Two Others On 3rd St.

Cars belonging to Chandler Sterling and Miss Nina Godt were damaged last evening at 7:30 when a roadster belonging to V. W. Rehfeldt of Forest Park went on a driverless tour on Third street.

Rehfeldt had driven to the county jail to call on his brother, who was arrested on a statutory charge in Forest Park early yesterday and brought to the Lee County jail. The visitor left his car parked on Third street and while he was talking with Sheriff Fred Richardson, the machine started west.

Sterling's coupe was parked in front of the St. Luke's rectory and was the first to be struck, a fender and wheel being damaged. The driverless car proceeded down the hill, crossed Peoria avenue and continued west to Highland avenue, where it crashed head on into a parked car belonging to Miss Godt. The driverless car came to a stop when it climbed the curb on the south side of Third street west of Highland avenue.

The owner arranged to settle all of the damages to the other cars and took his own damaged machine to a garage.

CLOUDS BROKE AWAY AT TIMES TO ALLOW VIEW

Scientists In the Eastern States View Phenomenon Today

Promptly on schedule the moon started its journey between the earth and the sun shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon and scores of Dixites watched the start of the phenomenon through smoked glasses. Just before the eclipse was due the sky was heavily overcast and a light rain fell, but the clouds broke up at times and glimpses of the shadow passing over the sun could be seen. At about 2:20 the surface of the sun was three-fourths covered, the visible surface resembling a moon in its first quarter.

Conway, N. H., Aug. 31—(AP)—At the moment when the moon began to pass over the sun in today's eclipse, an unobstructed view of the sun delighted assembled astronomers here. A large field of clouds was in the immediate vicinity, how-making uncertain prospects for pictures at totality.

Less than ten minutes after the contact, fairly dense bank of clouds began to spread over the face of the sun.

Conway was in the center of totality and had the largest concentration of scientists in the eclipse area.

Montpelier, Vt., reported good visibility as cloud banks cleared from time to time.

At Lowell, Mass., mill roofs and streets were crowded with thousands who witnessed the progress of the eclipse. There had been a heavy exodus from Lowell earlier in the day to Exeter, N. H., for better observation.

In Boston slow moving clouds passed frequently before the sun. To the gazer through darkened glasses the sun looked like a high-riding

Conway, N. H., Aug. 31—(AP)—Fourteen astronomical expeditions in this vicinity faced a sky filled with blue patches between the clouds 30 minutes before the moon's edge was due to make its "first contact" with the sun. The heat was intense.

Clouds were growing lighter as the time approached.

But three hours before totality there was not one single report of certainty on the "big gamble," a sure chance to see the beautiful corona.

The count of scientific expeditions rose to 52, so well scattered that there were chances for some of them to have good "seeing."

Scientists said the "radio eclipse" invisible to spectators, was certain of consummation. Clouds do not interfere with the tests of this phase of totality.

Success was also predicted for some of the scientific measurements of the abrupt twilight of total eclipse, as clouds do not completely interfere.

Some mountain weather observers reported the cloud ceiling sufficiently low to promise the fleet of airplane observers an easy climb.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The odds were with the scientists who gambled on New England's weather as morning brought clearing skies after a cloudy night to a large part of the area in which the solar eclipse will be total today.

At Barre, Vt., on the edge of the totality area, the sun broke through the clouds at 8 A. M. It had rained in northern Vermont during the early morning and daybreak was none too cheery. Through New Hampshire the skies were overcast but a great part of the Granite State there were also indications of a late morning sun.

Great Influx Noted

Thousands filtered into New Shire during the night to park in vacant lots and open fields. Parking space in the broad expanse of meadow lands through the sparsely settled sections was at a premium and late arrivals were forced to sleep in their cars during the night.

The railroads running into the area of the total eclipse ran special excursion trains, all of them loaded as they left the stations for northern New England points.

While millions prepared to watch the spectacle on land, thousands of others had booked passage on the fleet of excursion steamers leaving Boston, Salem and Gloucester, Mass.

A coastal steamship line altered its sailing time that its passengers, bound south, might see the eclipse and the course was changed so that the ship would pass through the totality area.

51 EXPEDITIONS READY

Boston, Mass., Aug. 31—(AP)—Fifty-one astronomical expeditions were lined up at dawn today awaiting this afternoon's total eclipse of the sun.

In a string 300 miles long and 50 wide, from Montreal to Cape Cod, they dotted the landscape, mostly in flat New England valleys. Their telescopes, looking like siege guns, field cannon and trench mortars,

Heat Wave In Midwest; Snow Fall in Rockies

By The Associated Press

Waning summer, as if to display its versatility, presented a weather medley as it blew hot and cold across the nation.

While Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and Cincinnati sweltered under a heat wave yesterday and Oklahoma City felt the gusty blasts of a sand storm, old timers in the Rockies were seeking to recall when, if ever, they had seen an earlier snow fall.

Texas and Kansas reported normal weather. Elsewhere, however, the unusual farewell of August resulted in heat prostrations. One death was reported in Chicago and another in Cleveland.

A 20-day drought was broken at Baltimore by a 1.3 inch rain fall. The mercury climbed to 94.

The snow fall occurred in the upper reaches of the Rockies in Utah, Wyoming, Colorado and Montana, and in eastern Washington and North Idaho. Some sections of the Watsatch Valley in Utah were blanketed by a foot and a half of snow.

AMPLE PARKING SPACE ASSURED AT L. L. PICNIC

Tract North Of Park Lodge Secured To Care For Cars

The parking committee for the Dixon Loyalty League's Rock River Valley picnic, has secured a sixty acre tract of land adjoining Lowell park north of the lodge where cars will be parked Thursday, with ample space for the anticipated overflow crowd. The parking space is easily accessible to the scene of the activities for the day and a force of men will be on hand to direct the parking.

The committee went to the park early this morning and started work laying out the grounds for the various races and contests which will furnish entertainment throughout the afternoon. There were no changes in the program and all indications pointed to the largest crowd attending in the history of this community.

Manager Hugh Burke of the professional men's soft ball team withdrew the announcement of his official lineup for the opening ball game against the barbers, but it was learned that the following had been selected as qualified professional men to take their places when the game is called: Robert Warner, Robert Dixon, Edward Kinney, Dr. Henry J. McCoy, Edward Jones, Dr. John V. Shellman, Dr. Raymond Worsley, Attorney H. A. Brooks, Attorney Morris Pierre, Attorney Elwyn Bunnell, Attorney M. J. Cannon, Attorney Courtney Ryan, Dr. E. A. Clevidence, Dr. H. A. Lazier, Dr. David Murphy, Dr. Grover Moss and Attorney Edward Jones. The management of the team had selected Gordon Utley to officiate as one of the staff of umpires.

STATUS MAYOR WALKER'S CASE NOW UNCERTAIN

Mayor's Illness Adds To Complications Around Hearing

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 31—(AP)—Because of a new complication, the illness of Mayor James J. Walker, the future of the ouster case against the New York Mayor had taken on added uncertainty today.

Already prolonged well toward the eve of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt's departure for the west on an extensive campaign tour, the probable date of the end of the Walker hearing remained as much a matter for speculation as the Governor's decision itself.

At New York Mayor Walker was in bed with nervous exhaustion, and his secretary, George S. Collins, said his illness might cause him to seek a further postponement of the hearing. Governor Roosevelt last Monday adjourned the hearing until Friday afternoon because of the death of George F. Walker, the Mayor's brother.

At Albany Governor Roosevelt found time to attend to matters in his presidential campaign and in the state's business which had been thrust aside during the days and evenings of the last three weeks while he has been hearing Walker's defense against the fifteen "conclusions" of Samuel Seabury, counsel for the Hofstadter legislative investigating committee.

The Governor leaves in a little less than two weeks for his 8,000 mile western tour from which he will return October 3.

Tight hats worn by women are likely to result in baldness, according to one physician.

WHO TRUST IN GOD—

LESSER are they who rejoice in the power of prayer. They draw very near to God. Blessed are they that fight for the right. They shall save their souls. For God is with them. Blessed are they who, through tribulation have come to perfect trust in God. There is the peace which passeth understanding.

Tomato Sauces Are Good, Easily Prepared

Tomato catsup and chili sauce are easy to make in the home kitchen. Their keeping qualities are admirable and their ingredients simple.

Those sauces can be used in many ways to add interest to plain meats during the winter months, and if made at home are a decided means toward economy. Chili sauce added to mayonnaise produces a delicious Russian dressing to be served with head lettuce. Vegetables, soups and meat sauce are improved if a dish of spicy catsup is beaten in just before serving. Vegetable and meat salads and sandwiches gain piquancy from this same sauce.

Sauces wanted for winter use should be highly flavored. Spices and seasonings mellow and blend with standing, and since the mission of the sauce is to whet the appetite, the sauce should be pleasantly zesty when opened for use.

Tomato Catsup

Eight quarts ripe tomatoes, 1 pound dry onions, 3 tablespoons salt, 2 teaspoons white pepper, 1 teaspoon cayenne pepper, 2 cups light brown sugar, 3 cups vinegar, 2 tablespoons broken stick cinnamon, 1 tablespoon whole cloves, 1 tablespoon celery seed, 1 tablespoon peppercorns, 1 tablespoon allspice berries.

Remove stems and cut tomatoes in quarters. Peel and slice onions. Cook vegetables until soft and rub through a sieve. Return to kettle with spices into preserving kettle and boil until reduced one-third. Add sugar, salt, white pepper and cayenne pepper and vinegar. Boil until thick, stirring with a long-handled spoon to prevent sticking. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal.

Chili Sauce

Eighteen ripe tomatoes, 5 medium sized onions, 4 green peppers, 1 cup sugar, 2 cups vinegar, 1-2 tablespoon salt, 1 tablespoon ground cinnamon, 1 teaspoon allspice, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon white pepper, 1-2 teaspoon cayenne pepper.

Scald tomatoes and slip skins. Cut in slices. Remove seeds and with from peppers and mince flesh. Peel and mince onions. Put all ingredients into preserving kettle and cook slowly until thick, about two hours. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal.

Glamorous Decorativeness Replaces Simplicity Of Past Seasons

If you want to keep your place in the fashion parade, the four pairs of slippers sketched here will make the step easier. They are fashioned from the newest materials and designed according to the latest patterns. Every pair has an intricate decorative touch that lends it a trifle more fascination.

At the left is a romantic white sandal, flowered in alluring bits of silver, which is attractive enough to make anyone keep step to any music. It is trimmed with tiny strips of green satin piped with gold. The large amount of open work shows off the new cobwebby stockings. A gown of the same material, whose description has been cabled straight from Paris, makes the slipper appear twice as alluring.

Next to the silver-spattered slipper is a white crepe de chine pump

ROOSEVELT "IGNORANT" OF LIQUOR'S POWER SAYS W. C. T. U. IN STATEMENT TODAY

Charges Democratic Candidate With "Surrendering To The Lower Powers" To Win

Washington, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The National Woman's Christian Temperance Union said in a statement today that Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt's prohibition repeal policy "constitutes a surrender to the lower powers."

Saying the statement was made "in opposition to the repeal; not in favor of any party or candidate," the W. C. T. U., outlined views it holds textually as follows:

Once upon a time there was a man named Roosevelt in the White House who, as the result of experiences with the liquor traffic, said that the American people must defeat the liquor traffic or the liquor traffic would defeat the American people. Later, during the World War the liquor traffic attempted such defeat by threatening President Wilson with a blockade of his war plans if in any way the final treacherous impudence caused the American people to outlaw the liquor traffic by the 18th amendment.

"For a dozen years liquor has acted the part of an outlaw, running its business illicitly, refusing to obey, making threats and spreading lies. All this has scared people of weaker moral constitutions; and a smaller Roosevelt has arisen who offers to restore the liquor traffic to a respectable place in business, with its old opportunities to debauch in return for a license, if only the liquor traffic and its friends will quit kicking and place this second Roosevelt in the White House."

"Interior Spectacle" makes America long for the big stick. Can anyone imagine the greater Roosevelt surrendering to the importunities of political organizations fostered and supported by the liquor traffic? The liquor traffic has always supported the politics of bad government. It was the corner stone of much of the evil President Roosevelt exposed, opposed and dethroned.

"Corrupt government, corrupt interests, selfish politics not only want state control of liquor but state control of everything. It makes no difference to the corrupt city political organizations which party wins this election, as long as state control comes along with it. The racketeer, the liquor dealer, the underworld are in control of city politics largely. City politics in many localities control the state; hence the loud cry for 'state rights' from certain quarters. It will put state control in the hands of the city hall gangs."

"The drive against prohibition is supported in practical political manner by racketeering politicians who derive support from liquor interests, legal or illegal. The cry for state rights is accompanied by a strong effort to remove state prohibition laws; a situation which always creates happy hunting grounds for bootleggers; and giving control of state politics and state government to the lower order. It builds that type of liquor-dealer support on which selfish political interests climb to power; the exact opposite of the requirements for good government."

"Will Have Saloons" Governor Roosevelt makes much of the promise of a liquor-soaked nation without saloons. Liquor, no matter how sold, has a universal and uniform debauching effect. However, the liquor business wants and will have saloons in case of repeal. Right now, according to newspaper advice, liquor people are taking options on property they hope to turn into saloons. We are informed that the brewers are laughing in their sleeves at the gullibility of the American people who think the saloon can be prohibited.

"Leaders of high standing may promise there will be no saloons; but the Chicago and New York crowd that envisions a political empire based on booze knows that the strong points of their power will be the saloon, no matter what its name."

"In many larger cities the gangs which attempted defiance of the federal government, have held out their depleted business to smaller fry of the underworld and have taken up gambling, commercial racketeering, and vice; dissolutions which are covered mainly by state law."

"Only Want Majority" These gangs, working closely with state and city political organizations, know they cannot successfully buck federal law but can, will and do defy state law by their control of and city political organizations. So also the small bootleggers. All they want is a majority in politics, withdrawal of federal law and state control. That's why so many babbling politicians have reverted to the traditional slogan of "state's rights." Under the present plan of the predatory and vicious interests, "state's rights" has no more relation to its original high ideals than a skull and bones pennant to the Stars and Stripes.

MUSICIANS AT ASSEMBLY ARE PLEASING MANY.

Talented Young People Appear Nightly At Auditorium

"Is the World Going Mad?" will be answered tonight at the Paul Rader tabernacle in Assembly Park by Rev. A. A. Smith, the "Chaplain of the Air," founder and evangelist of the Tampa Gospel Tabernacle, Tampa, Florida.

Rev. Smith comes to Dixon with a different message, the kind that grips and holds one's attention. The three young gospel musical messengers are just full of music, giving thirty minutes of an unbroken musical program from 7:45 to 8:15 on their many instruments. Last night, of their eighteen instruments, the cornet, alto horn, cow bells, violin, vibraphone and hand saws, were played to a good size audience. A larger sized crowd is expected tonight as these musical artists become known in this vicinity.

Produce received Monday for the Paul Rader Pantry was as follows: From Farm Bureau: twenty-six chickens, two bags corn, one bag cucumbers, fifty pounds of carrots; Lloyd group: ten bushels of tomatoes; Franklin Grove: fifty bushels of tomatoes; Tuesday, Farm Bureau: Bradford, two chickens; Ash-ton, seven chickens; Franklin, six chickens, eight bushels of corn, one bushel of tomatoes; Nachusa, five chickens, three bushels of corn, one bushel of tomatoes, one bushel of squash, one bushel of apples; Tobias Wallace, sweet corn. From Mr. Cortright, truck load of corn.

PURGING ITALIAN OF FOREIGN WORDS.

Remember during the war, when everybody was deeply nationalistic and patriotic, how "sauerkraut" disappeared from the menu and bobbed up as "liberty cabbage"? And how the Germans, not to be outdone, suddenly discovered that there had been a deep infiltration of English and French words for which they at once invented German equivalents?

Well, 13 years after the war is over, Italy is swinging into action to purify the mother tongue of words which have slipped in from outside. It is becoming the duty of all good Italians, particularly writing men, to avoid foreign words as they would the plague of a Communist.

There is, for instance, that good old word—"taxi"—which has become well-nigh universal. But it jarred the fine ear of Benito Mussolini. There is nothing soft and melodious and Italian about those dreadful English "x" sounds. So the prime minister-dictator himself took a hand and invented the more mellifluous "tassi."

"Omelette" is banished back to that much-hated France from whence it came. You must ask for a "frittata." Don't spring that other universal English word "sandwich" on the restaurant keeper. Wrap your hungry lips around "panino imbottito." If you want to ask a dark-eyed damsel in your hotel if she likes "jazz" music, don't say it. There is a much prettier Italian word, bright from the mint—"giazzzo." And when you take her back to home and mother don't give the street directions to a "chauffeur." Remember that the National Fascist Transport Federation has had several meetings, wracked its collective brains and put forth the correct word—"autista."

Then, too, along with Reds and other agitators, there have been banned from Italy some queer words which look English, but have been twisted out of their original meaning and adopted by the French who, in turn, shipped them into Italy. Thus the French call a dinner jacket or tuxedo—a "smoking." They called a morning coat a "redingote." The Italians will now turn a deaf ear when you mention either one of them.

ARE WOMEN "GOOD SPORTS"?

There have been plenty of accusations against the modern young woman, but one of the newest of these is unexpected. It is made by Vera Caspary, novelist, who declares that women today are not as good sports as their grandmothers were.

True it is, says this critic, that women are flocking to the country clubs. They golf, swim, play tennis, drive airplanes and take part in the Olympics. They have triumphed in the professions and in business and they like to talk about their tolerance and broad-mindedness. But, according to Miss Caspary, "when women became consciously 'good sports'—such good sports that they had to tell everyone about it—they ceased to be as sporting as their grandmothers or even their mothers, who played the marriage game squarely as a matter of course.

"Our grandmothers had too much self-respect to allow their marriages to fail. We do the sporting thing and take off for Paris or Reno. Since we have become so divorce-conscious it has become easier and easier to find petty things over which to raise issues while all the time we are insisting we are such good sports."

Generalizations, of course, but nevertheless this criticism raises a point worth considering. The world has become so conscious of its modernity, so sure of superiority that it is a shock to be told our ancestors excelled in boasted, modern qualities. And any comment that may shed light on the tangled and turbulent problem of modern marriage deserves an audience.

STOP THE WIDOW'S PENSION RACKET.

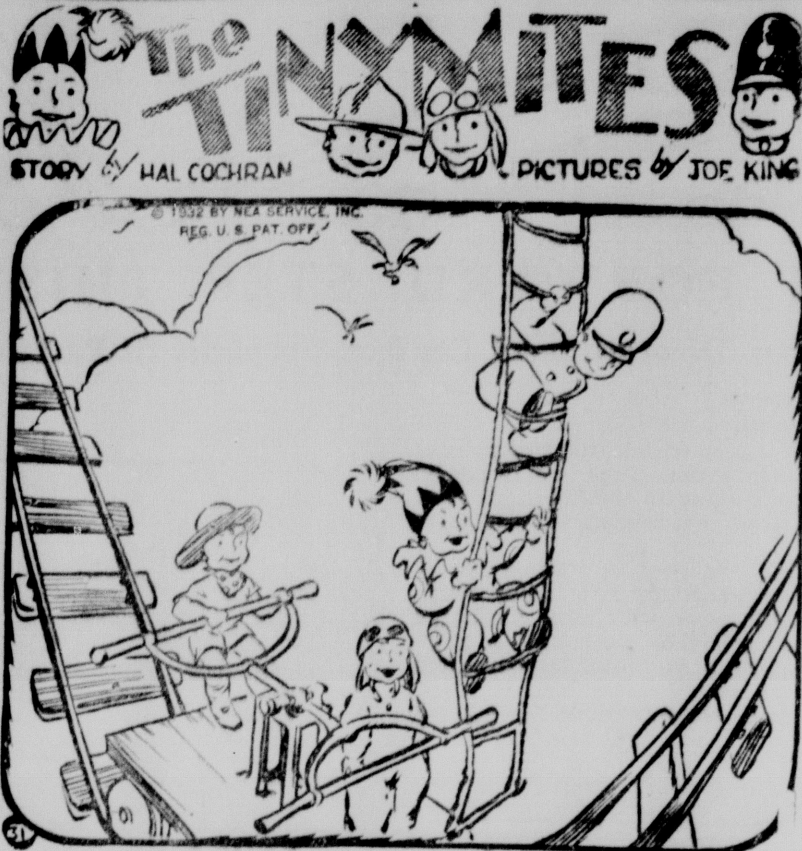

One of the wisest steps taken by the late Congress was the passing of legislation to prevent granting of widows' pensions to women marrying Civil and Spanish-American war veterans after 1905 and 1922, respectively. But the bill didn't go far enough. It should have set a similar date for the World War veterans.

The widow's pension business has been something of a racket at federal expense for almost a century. Young girls married aged veterans of the War of 1812 and of the Mexican War with the assurance that they would get a pension for life after their husbands died. They did, and the government and the taxpayers were the goats.

For example, the treasury still pays pensions to nearly 500 widows of Mexican War veterans, although not a single veteran of that war is now alive.

If Congress doesn't take some action, taxpayers will still be burdened with World War widows' pensions in the year 2000.

The Japanese government is convinced that the recognition of this state (Manchoukuo) is the only means of stabilizing conditions in Manchuria and of establishing conditions of permanent peace in the Far East.—Yasuya Uchida, Japanese foreign minister.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"Say, we are in an awful mess," said Scouty. We are stuck, I guess. Our car is hanging in the air and pumping does no good. "We can't stay here for very long because the tricks don't look so strong. I'd climb right up the ties to safety, if I thought I could."

"And then I'd look around for aid, but frankly, I'm afraid that I might take a tumble. Gee, I feel much safer here. "Perhaps somebody will come by and we can make them hear our cry." Then Duncy said, "I fear they won't. Oh, dear! Oh, dear! Oh, dear!"

"Oh, don't get panic-stricken, lad," said Windy. "Gee, you should be glad that we weren't pitched right into space. It could be worse than this."

"Let's just sit down and rest a bit. We'll think of some plan while we sit. We always get out safely, lads, when something goes amiss."

And so they sat down on the car. My goodness but it looked real far to trees and things that were below. "It frightens me," said one. "I'm sorry that we took this trip. Supposin' this small car should slip. You all know what would happen and it wouldn't be much fun."

Just then the bunch heard that Windy say, "Gee, look what's coming down our way. Why, it's a long rope ladder. Grab a hold of it real quick."

"If we can climb up out of here, there will be nothing more to fear. Whoever let that ladder down has pulled a kindly trick."

The ladder dangled here and there. Then Scouty gave the bunch a scare by jumping up a little bit. "I have it," he cried out.

"Come on, we'll climb up to the ground and there we will be safe and sound." And so they started climbing, wondering what 'twas all about.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

Washington, D. C. — President Hoover's continued attitude of aloofness from the details of the republican campaign surprises no one who knows his personal inclinations and the pressure of his official duties.

Of course he need not be expected to put politics entirely away from him; no President ever has done that in a presidential year or out of it. But it may be accepted that he will be less active than many of his predecessors in the usual maneuvers of a reelection campaign and will leave the minutiae of minor strategy to others.

No one who has seen him at close range expects him, for instance, to enter into anything like a joint debate with his democratic opponent or anyone else. Nothing is likely to change his determination to make few speeches. He may be counted on to stick close to Washington and to the problems of the present administration.

The factors come as near to being absolute certainties as anything can be in politics.

Follows Party Tradition

There are several reasons for this some political and some personal. On the political side there is the standing rule that the place for republican presidential candidates is at home. Republican presidential practices do not run to swings round the circle nor to intensive disputation with the opposition. In his present course Mr. Hoover is following a party tradition which has been fruitful of many victories in the past.

McKinley and Harding, with their "front porch" campaigns, followed that tradition to the White House. Coolidge followed it when he was a candidate for reelection, eight years ago, to the extent of wholly ignoring the direct questions of his opponent.

The classic example on the other side is Hughes, who in 1916 stumped the country and left his White House chances buried behind him in far-off California.

Mr. Hoover himself followed the tradition to a large degree in his first campaign. His speeches were comparative few and never featured by give-and-take argument.

Busy Times For Him

The personal reasons behind the present Hoover policy arise from two considerations. In the first place, the hurly-burly of politics has little attraction for him. Orville in later years of his life has had any direct contact with it, and he never has appeared quite at home on the hustings. Probably his most unpleasant memories of the Presidency will revolve about the annoyances and exasperations he has experienced with politics.

In the second place, he has so mapped out his work as President that he has literally almost no time for anything else. He gets far down into detail in the handling of many public problems. He talks over national affairs with a constant stream of callers.

His hours of sleep and of exercise are strictly limited, and on many of his week-end trips to the Rapidan camp he takes along those with whom he wants to talk business.

Won't Change His Ways

How will all of this affect his chances in November? Some politicians think the picture of a President busy at his desk, refusing to be embroiled in partisan dispute or distracted by campaign clamor, will appeal strongly to the country in this time of stress.

Others argue that traditions of other years are worthless; that the voters are likely to look on Mr. Hoover as somewhat "snooty" and to prefer a candidate who climbs down into the arena and gives and takes hard blows.

Everyone is entitled to his guess, but no one need expect the President to change his ways.

DAILY HEALTH

DUODENAL ULCERS—II

In connection with the study of duodenal ulcers certain experiments have been devised and carried out.

In these experiments pancreatic juice was not allowed to mix with food substances coming from the stomach. In 13 to 18 days after the beginning of the experiments, it was observed that ulcers formed in the duodenum.

The presumption is, though this is far from established, that the unalkalinated acid contents of the stomach in some manner eroded the mucous lining of the duodenum and produced ulcers.

It is known that when food enters the stomach, it is subjected to a "churning" process. The solid and the semi-solid foods that enter the stomach are reduced by this churning process to a mushy state.

While this goes on the intestinal end of the stomach periodically opens to let out a bit of the digestive food contents into the duodenum.

It now appears that when the stomach opens by what is known as the pyloric sphincter (a round muscle band which pinches tightly shut the intestinal end of the stomach) a certain amount of the alkaline content of the duodenum enters the stomach, and mixes and to some extent neutralizes the acid food substance in the region.

This, in a measure, prepares the food for subsequent passage into the duodenum.

The suggestion from these experiments is that the formation of duodenal ulcers, and perhaps too of gastric ulcers, may be the result of the failure of the proper chemical admixture of the acid content of the stomach with the alkaline content of the duodenum.

If further studies reveal these experiments to be well grounded, they will have given us a very welcome bit of added information on this important problem.

Famous Hanneford Family With Circus

The world famous Hanneford Family pictured above with George, the incomparable riding clown, will be a feature to be seen with Downie Bros. Circus when the big show under the management of Charles Sparks comes here on Monday for the afternoon and night performances on the Scholl baseball park.

Returning to America from a triumphant tour of the Music Halls and circuses of Europe, this outstanding group of Equestrians are said to be the world's greatest bareback riders.

There are 6 in this act and four of the finest specimens of horse flesh that have ever reached these shores.

George, the riding clown, mingling his hilarious comedy amid the thrills of daring and accomplished horsemanship has kept his audiences in all parts of the world astonished with his skill.

This famous group of artists are the last of a long line of circus stars which had their origin in England—later the senior Hanneford had his own circus in Ireland, and in later years the younger members of which George is by far the most renowned, came to America where they have been touring with circuses.

This 1932 tour however is the first in several years and many new thrills have been added to the outstanding circus feature.

Downie Brothers' mile long street parade will leave the circus lot here at 11:45 A. M. This is said to be the largest circus in the world that still retains this feature.

RAT WON OUT

Knoxville, Tenn. — Little E. W. and E. J. Daniels, 9 and 11 year old respectively, came out second best in a battle with a rat. Hearing a noise under the floor of their home, E. W., the younger, reached his hand through a hole to grab the rat. Then he yelled and jerked it away. He had been bitten. His brother then tried it, with the same result. The children were treated at the hospital. The rat got away.

CORN THAT IS

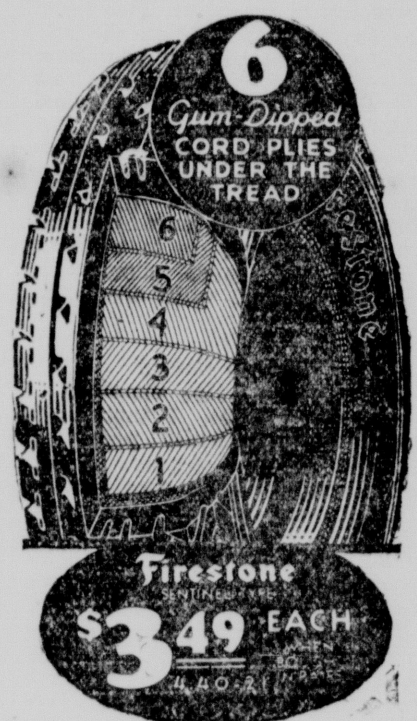

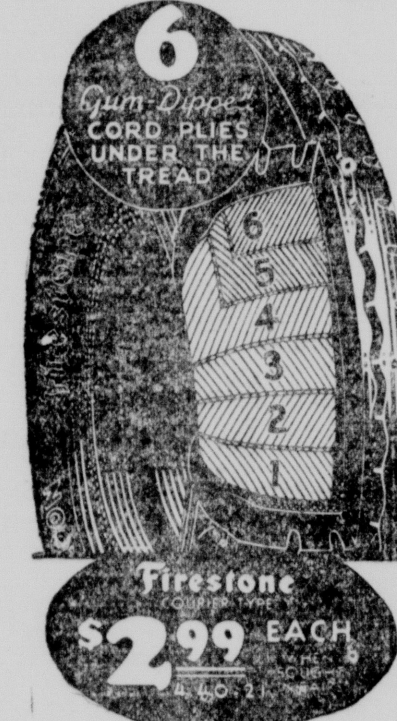

Nebraska City, Neb. — Out in Otoe County, Neb., corn really is corn and makes corn grown elsewhere look like stalks of lettuce. After a number of passersby had remarked to Albert Chapman of Otoe County, about the height of his crop, he got curious and decided to measure his stalks. He found that the shortest ones measured 12 feet and others as much as 13 or 14 feet.

AIRGARD

Guards Your Air

Eliminates Noise and Dirt

Relieves Hay Fever

The Airgard is a miniature air conditioning unit for homes or offices that can be installed easily and quickly in any sliding window.

It draws in the fresh, outside air; cleanses it of dust and bacteria and releases it in full volume, without drafts, into the room to push out the stale polluted air. It shuts out street noises that wear on the nerves. It removes pollens and other irritants from the air, and makes any room a haven for sufferers from hay fever and bronchial asthma. It catches epidemic and disease germs that ride the dust particles. The Airgard is inexpensive in first cost and operation. Quickly pays for itself in savings to health and furnishings.

HAY-FEVER SUFFERERS will be particularly interested in the results accomplished by leading allergic specialists by the use of the Airgard in the treatment of seasonal hay-fever and bronchial asthma. A special brochure describing tests made at the College of Medical Research, University of Illinois, and giving the results accomplished by the use of filtered air in the treatment of a large number of typical hay-fever cases, is available to anyone who will write—

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS DOUBLE HEADER TO DECIDE CITY TITLE THIS EVE

Winks' Specials Trimmed Dudes' Lead To A Single Game

More than 500 enthusiastic fans watched the tide of the city soft ball championship swerve momentarily last evening at the Independent field when Wink's Specials completely outplayed the leading City Dudes and with the excellent support behind Lyle Fordham's delivery held the leaders scoreless and won by a 3 to 0 count. The result cuts the Dudes' lead to one game in the championship series, the count being 3 to 2 in their favor. A double header will probably be played this evening to close the series. The first game will be called at 4:30 at Independent field and in the event that the Specials are victorious, the second game will be played at 6 o'clock.

Fordham was in excellent form last evening and was given equally brilliant support. Five hits were all that could be chalked up in the entire seven innings, two of these coming in the first. Fordham also figured strongly in the Specials' scoring, he having registered a triple in the fifth inning, when he batted the ball into deep right and sent Ted Ryan across the plate. Fordham scored when Collins drove a sharp single to right, the Specials securing four hits in the one inning, which was hurriedly halted when O'Malley scooped up a hot liner off Edwards' bat and doubled Collins at third.

Third baseman "Shires" Miller for the Dudes established a new record in soft ball annals. He fanned in the first inning and in the fourth, stepped up to the plate, broke two bats in attempting to pound the ball out of the infield, and whiffed when Fordham breezed one of his fast breaking curves past him. He managed to scratch a single to right field in the final inning but got no further than second base.

In an attempted rally the Dudes used Hi Emmert in the sixth to bat in Ubel's place and he grounded out to Fordham. Cooper finished in the right field position for the Dudes. The box score:

Do You Remember

One Year Ago Today—Ernie Schaeff, husky heavyweight protégé of Jack Sharkey, knocked out Victorio Campolo, Argentine ring giant, in the seventh round of a scheduled 12-rounder at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn.

Five Years Ago Today—Ernst Vierkotter, German baker whose powerful swimming stroke conquered the English Channel, won the Canadian National 21-mile marathon swim at Toronto. The German splashed the distance in 11 hours 42 minutes and 12 seconds, winning $30,000 of the $50,000 prize money.

Ten Years Ago Today—Eddie Held of St. Louis, 19-year-old 130-pounder, won the first annual national public links golf championship, defeating Dick Walsh of New York 6 and 5 in the 36-hole final at Toledo.

Four Teams Enter For County Title

Four teams have entered into the Lee county soft ball tournament which is being planned for next week. This morning it was reported that the Risley's Terrers, Wink's Specials and the City Dudes from Dixon had enrolled and the Franklin Grove team brought the number up to four. It is expected that some of the teams from Amboy and Ashton may also enroll before the close of the week.

NOTICE.
Compare the Telegraph with other papers you read—your conclusion will be that Dixon and Lee county readers are given a newspaper far above the average. Last year the University of Illinois voted the Dixon Telegraph the best paper in the state of towns with over 10,000 population.

YANKS' SIEGE GUNS HAVE PUT TEAM IN FRONT

Survey Shows Many Of McCarthy's Games
Won By Homers

By GAYLE TALBOT.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

The ability to belt home runs in to the distant bleachers when there are men on bases and the game hanging by a thread has been an outstanding characteristic of the Yankees in their headlong night toward the American League flag.

A glance at their record reveals the clouting New Yorkers have won a total of 28 games by pounding one or more for the circuit to achieve victory. The prodigious punches of Ruth, Gehrig, Lazzeri and the team's other siege guns have put the Yankees where they are today.

Yesterday it was Gehrig whose two homers brought victory over the Chicago White Sox, 6 to 5. Johnny Allen didn't pitch much of a game, yielding 12 hits, but Lou's 30th and 31st four-baggers brought in five runs and made it easy for the big rookie to score his 15th triumph in 17 games. Billy Sullivan made four of Chicago's hits.

Red Sox' Surprise.
The lowly Boston Red Sox gave the day's prize performance in knocking Wes Ferrell from the box in the first inning and beating Cleveland, 6 to 2. Three solid hits and a base on balls sent the Indians ace showerward, and the Sox went on to score five runs before Jack Russell retired them.

Jimmie Fox's 48th home run with Cochrane on base broke a tie in the seventh inning and gave the Athletics a 6 to 4 decision over the Detroit Tigers. Lefty Grove allowed seven hits in scoring victory No. 21.

The Washington Senators continued their winning spurt with a 11 to 7 conquest of St. Louis. Although knocked from the hill in the sixth, Bill McAfee registered his fourth success since joining the Senators.

Cubs Set Record.
The Chicago Cubs set a season's record in the National League by defeating the New York Giants, 4 to 3, for their eleventh straight victory, scoring the winning run in the ninth on a hit batsman two walks and a fumble by Critz.

Pittsburgh picked up a half game by outgunning the Boston Braves twice, 10 to 7 and 3 to 2. The Pirates rallied to score five runs in the eighth inning to win the first game and again in the nightcap put over the winner in the eighth.

The Brooklyn Dodgers made only six hits off Syl Johnson and Tex Carleton, but they built them into a 5 to 4 victory over St. Louis.

Cincinnati and the Phillies were idle.

Peoria Boxers To Star At The Maples

Fans attending the past shows at the Crawford's Maples Arena are acquainted with the quality of the boys hailing from Jack Beatty's gym in Peoria. Tomorrow evening another set of downstate fighters are to make an appearance. This week's boxing entertainment will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Plenty of high-class material is scheduled to show off before the fans of this vicinity. Kenny Jackson, Golden Gloves finalist, and one of the smartest scrappers in the game, Billy Davis, Dixons popular welter, whose reputation is fast approaching the top, Davis has fought three bouts at the Maples and won two over Johnny Becker of Peoria on the decision route and knocked out Tony Locoschinas, Kewanee in the first round. Scuvvy Scanvino is the Marseilles entrant in this week's set. This scrapper is one of the toughest of the performers, with a wicked punch in either hand he whipped George Carlson, in LaSalle last spring for the only defeat the Dixon star has suffered.

Dixons brothers are working in the third and fourth fights. Eddie Carlson, whose recent victory over Pete Simatis in Rockford justified opinion that he has become a polished amateur, fights Al Yeager, Peoria, George Carlson and Tuffy Wilson of Peoria meet at 118 pounds. George is one of the fastest and cleverest boys to appear at the Maples and already has a large following. In the curtain-raiser Ralph Raffetra St. David clashes with Frank Ladd Lewis and Clyde Deshaune, St. David meets Red Bender of Canton.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Dearest beloved, avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath: for it is written, vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord.—Romans 12:19.

Three Games To Decide Championship Of Community Loop

(Telegraph Special Service)

Scarboro, Aug. 31 — Scarboro's win Sunday put them in a tie with Lee for the championship of the Community baseball league. A three game series will start on Sunday, September 11, to decide the honors. League officials have not decided upon which field the first game of the series shall be played but it is expected that either the Lee or Scarboro diamond will be chosen and a neutral field for the third and deciding game.

Although Scarboro committed nine errors they defeated PawPaw by a score of 7 to 5 by going on a batting rampage in the eighth inning Smith started the rally by doubling to left center and scored on Henry's single. The bases became clogged when Montavon and Grove singled in succession. Two runs came in when Kelly booted Herrmans grounder and two more scored on Thompson's sharp single to left. Kelly came in to pitch and retired the Colts without further damage.

Thompson pitched a fine game for Scarboro, allowing but seven hits and striking out eight batters. The five runs that scored came in on errors.

McLaughlin was nicked for 14 hits and registered but two strike outs. Next Sunday Walton will come to Scarboro to meet the Colts and a good game is assured the fans.

THAT advertising speeds up success.

Truthful advertising is nourishment that the people can easily digest, and will pay any business concern that uses it persistently.

Competition is keener today than it has been in years and than make it necessary for business concerns to pay greater attention to the work that advertising does.

Truthful, persistent advertising compels attention and always creates favorable impressions. It aids sales with its convenience, economy and effectiveness.

Advertising is vital to the success of every business. Persistent advertising indicates quality and value and creates confidence in the minds of the buying public.

Quality goods well advertised sell and keep on selling.

Advertising builds business and, by increasing volume, cuts down overhead—nothing strange about that. It is being done everywhere.

SUN'S ECLIPSE MAY HAVE REAL EFFECT ON SWIM

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 31—(AP)—Lanterns and flashlights were added today to the towboat cargoes of coaches who were to scull along with the competitors in the Canadian national exhibition 15-mile Marathon swim. And all because of the eclipse of the sun.

Toronto scientists said the darkness of the mid-afternoon eclipse would be no more intense than it is at dusk, but the coaches were taking no chances of losing their charges when the moon edges across the sun.

The eclipse may prove an even greater handicap to the swimmers. Experts said it would cause a drop of four or five degrees in the temperature of the water in Lake Ontario.

A half dozen powerful swimmers stood out in the huge field which planned to start. Leading all the rest was George Young of Toronto, winner of the event last year.

Young was aiming at first prize money of $7,500, a neat sum with which to start house-keeping after his marriage to Margaret Ravior of Philadelphia, winner of the women's 10-mile swim last week.

Other favorites included Marvin Nelsen of Port Dodge, Iowa, and Ernst Vierkotter of Germany, both former winners of this event; George Blagden of Memphis; Isaac Sponder, Port Colborne, Ont.; Bill Goll, New York; Gianni Gambi, Italy, and the Pritchard brothers, Stanley and Frank, from Buffalo.

DELAYS BALL GAME

Manchester, N. H., Aug. 31—(AP)—Joe Graffagnini was the hero of the hour as New Orleans and Springfield, Mass., awaited the passing of an eclipse to resume their battle for the junior American Legion baseball supremacy.

Graffagnini not only pitched the full nine innings for the western champions yesterday but his double during a ninth inning rally drove in two runs and gave New Orleans a 3 to 2 win in the opening game of the "little world series."

Today's game was to start sometime after 3:30 P. M. (EST.) because of the eclipse.

OWENS PLEASED CARROLLITES IN ASCENSIONS

Democrat Praises the Dixon Balloonist for His Exhibitions

Concerning the balloon ascensions made by Andy Owens of Dixon there during the Home-Coming celebration last Friday and Saturday the Mt. Carroll Mirror Democrat had the following to say:

Saturday, the balloon ascension, the ball game, the old time variety show, and fireworks were all pulled off and everything seemed to please the great crowd, in spite of the rain.

The two balloon ascensions and parachute drops by the veteran aeronautist, Andy Owens, were the best ever seen in Carroll or any other county. Friday's was a grand one, although late in starting because of the strong wind. He went high and passed over town to the Nycum farm east of town. But Saturday day there no wind, and from the time Mr. Owens made his fire until he went up and landed again was just 26 minutes. The balloon went straight up, a grand sight. And when he came back to terra firma he was not more than 300 yards from where he started.

Mr. Owens is one of the best in the business. He has but one hand, but on the trapeze going up and coming down he did stunts that would challenge the most expert trapeze performer to duplicate. He makes an ascension for Rev. Paul Rader at Assembly Park, Dixon, a week from today, Labor Day, and there will be many who saw him here who will want to see him at Dixon. From Dixon, he goes to Elkhorn, Wis., for the balance of the week. Andy Owens is not only an artist but a gentleman, and we hope the next directors of the Commercial Club will have him as an attraction.

FROM CONTENTED COWS

Nelson, B. C.—Most cows are satisfied with hay, but one that reached Federal lettuce caused George Fieldhouse considerable financial embarrassment. Returning home recently, he discovered he had lost his wallet containing four ten-dollar and two two-dollar bills. Retrieving his steps, he came across a cow contentedly munching his money. He managed to save only one 10-dollar bill and a two-dollar bill.

BUT THE PROOF?

Petersburg, Ind.—This may be a fish story but John Marshsee claims that he caught two catfish on a single hook. The first fish, he explained, took the bait but it slipped through his gill. Catfish No. 2 gulped down the bait and hook as Marshsee was pulling up the first one. Each fish weighed five pounds.

TAXPAYERS MEET

When the Lee County Tax Payers' Association met on Monday on a hill east of Dixon, I was among the taxpayers who gathered to find out what is being done. The four hour business session of the association brought many interesting facts to the attention of the representative taxpayers who had assembled from many parts of the county.

Comment was made to the effect that through the active cooperation of our Board of County Supervisors a reduction in expense of approximately $7,000 was made this County through salary reductions and wage cuts of county officers and county workers. These workers should certainly be given credit for their willingness to aid in reducing the taxpayers' burden.

Facts and figures gathered from county, state, and Federal statistics were quoted to show that this year's farm income can pay only 49 per cent of the taxes which must be met before harvest time next year.

If we cannot pay our taxes on time, interest and charges are added to the original tax figure thus carrying it even further beyond our ability to pay. Eventually the procedure of law allows professional tax title purchasing agents or individuals to gain the title to the property at a mere fraction of its real worth.

As a survey of the taxpayers shows that we are all involved in the grave financial distress of our times, it is evident that something must be done quickly in order to bring the taxes down to our ability to pay so that we may keep our property. The Lee County Board of Equalization has offered a reduction of 15 per cent of taxes, but at least a 50 per cent reduction is necessary, according to figures.

During the taxpayers meeting it was pointed out that there is a powerful lobby maintained at Springfield by a certain group of county office holders from all over the state. This lobby has exerted such great pressure upon our state representatives as to prevent them from lowering the county salaries. The figures for these salaries were established in prosperous times. It was also pointed out that laws have been passed by the state legislature which take from our County supervisors the power to control the finances of the county and the wages paid to certain county office holders, although these expenses must be met from county funds. This procedure is going on right in the face of a situation where business men in the city and farmers in the country have had their income lessened almost to the point of bankruptcy.

Information recently received from officials of taxpayers' associations in Lee County and other counties throughout the state show that much progress has been made. These associations have solicited the aid and cooperation of the governor and other high state officials. Due to their influence a special session of state legislature has been called. This session will likely consider means for relieving the distressing financial situation of the state and modifying state tax laws.

After listening to the discussions of taxpayers' problems, I am convinced that every taxpayer in Lee County should join some taxpayers' association and stand shoulder to shoulder with his friends and neighbors in solving our tax problems.

Our own family tax receipts and books show that on a 160 acre farm near Dixon, the taxes have been raised from $30.27 to $208.87 during the period of our family ownership. These figures show a tax increase of 700 per cent. Grain prices per bushel and farm wages per day were about the same while only the tax values changed.

A couple years ago the land of a neighboring farm was assessed five to fifteen dollars higher than adjacent property because the land was considered of such high quality. Although this same land now produces a 30 bushel per acre yield giving a rent of 90 cents per acre, the same acres are taxes at $14. From a high yield of grain of 52.50 bushel per acre, the owners share will bring just $1.53 per acre in rent with which to pay $1.54 per acre in taxes. There certainly is no margin allowed for the necessary costs of farm upkeep and management with tax assessments more than the income from rent.

A petition sponsored by the Lee County Taxpayers' Association is being circulated which will call for further reduction of taxes in our county. I am certain that this association is doing everything possible to place tax assessment figures within the paying ability of the county taxpayers so I am in favor of this petition and wish to urge every taxpayer to sign it.

—A City and County Taxpayer.

"We stand by prohibition as the best method."

Ellis A. Boole—President of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union has made that remark.

We recognize the right of those opposed to prohibition to work for its repeal. We see strong reasons, why the days should refuse to help them in their efforts by failing in with their strategy and program.

We do not believe that any "dry" member of Congress or any "dry" voter need support their plans. Congressmen are responsible to their constituents.

We believe prohibition is the best method of dealing with the liquor traffic and until convinced there is a better method we will oppose repeal or modification.

We believe the emphasis and work should be placed on observance and enforcement.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union does not stand alone among women as opposed to the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. The General Federation of Women's Clubs, The National Congress of Parents and Teachers, The National Education Association, The Council of Women for Home Missions, The Council of Women's Foreign Missionary Societies, the Federation of Church Women, and the Woman's National Law Enforcement Committee all are on record as supporting prohibition and its enforcement.

They and we know that if the Eighteenth Amendment is repealed or modified it will be impossible to conserve the benefits of prohibition and at the same time legalize the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor.

A BOOK A DAY
Horace Trundell, president of the Federated Utilities, specialized in feeding bunk to the public. In fact, since he had almost no brains, that was why he had his job.

He was a fine orator, and when he told people that only Reds were afraid of the power trust and that utility stock prices were sure to keep on going higher and higher, forever and ever, they all believed him. And the only trouble was that he finally got so that he believed it himself and when 1929 knocked the bottom out of everything he fell into the soup along with the suckers.

Horace Trundell is the central figure in "There is a Tide" by Percival Wilde; a novel which is about as bitter a satire of American business as you will easily find.

MONA TOWNSEND, married six months and widowed, inherits her husband's millions providing she does not wed. Her marriage, arranged by Townsend's lawyer who was Mona's employer, was a strange affair, leaving her free at the end of a year to become her husband's wife in actuality or secure a divorce. Mona, in love with her husband's nephew, BARRY TOWNSEND, agreed to the marriage when she thought Barry was just to be her friend.

Barry is in South America where he and STEVE SACARELLI are partners in a diamond mine. Mona's brother, BUD, works for them. LOTTIE CARR, fashion model, is Mona's closest friend. Mona feels Barry is entitled to a share of his uncle's fortune but there is no legal way for her to arrange this. She employs Lottiel as her secretary and companion and they sail for South America. Mona hopes for a reconciliation with Barry and also to find a way to give him a share of the Townsend fortune.

Learning that Barry and Steve are on a vacation at Holiday Island, the boat at Port of Spain. A beautiful young French girl who is trying to escape from her choplain boards the boat. She sees Barry's picture in Mona's stateroom and cries out, "My Barry!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVII

"Do you know Barry Townsend?" asked Mona slowly. She came into the cabin and, closing the door, leaned against it. This other girl, the slip of a youngster really, was clasping Barry's picture to her heart as though she loved him.

She seemed scarcely old enough to love anyone. Yet Mona realized she was not too young. Latin races maturing early, had produced this girl who was roaming over the photograph.

"Pardon, Madame?" said Celeste, startled. "Do I know Barry?" A man could have loved this girl. Mona thought, for just that delightful, lingering drawl.

But there were other reasons as well. Celeste was beautiful. She had wound her hair once with the black and white silk bandkerchief. Lottiel's simple white silk frock suited her to perfection. "You know my Barry, Madame?" the girl asked again, wondering. "But naturally! Or you would not have had his picture? Or maybe—he's a movie star?"

"Movie star?" repeated Mona. Relief came over her with a joyous glow. "Then you do not know him? You do not know who he is?"

"I know him," responded the girl said reprovingly.

girl assuredly. She set the leather case back again on top of the wardrobe trunk whence she had removed it.

"Where did you see him?" asked Lottiel.

"Here," added Mona. "Sit down and don't be afraid. We would like to know where it was you saw Barry Townsend."

The girl hesitated. "I do him no wrong?" she asked carefully. "You are not—"

Celeste's eyes traveled to the ring on Mona's finger.

"His wife?" Mona laughed a little harshly. "No. I am—I am his aunt! Don't be afraid. I have come here in search of Barry and if you can help me find him then you are befriending him. It may be in my power to bring him much wealth."

CELESTE sat down slowly. "Yes," she said at last, "I will tell you. Why not? Oh, it is nothing! I fell in love with him. Maybe you think I am young?" She drew herself up proudly. "I am sixteen! I met Barry when he went to Barbuda. Hunting. I was there with my father. Barry was there in his white you-call? Motor sledge. Ah yes! He and another gentleman. A dark man. They came to Barbuda—"

"Barbuda?"

"Another island." There was a lilt in the girl's voice. "Barbuda, where gentlemen go to hunt. Oh, a darling island. Planted—is that correct?—with game. A beautiful place. The ancients who owned it used to breed fine slaves there. Only the loveliest of them remained. The others were sold. For generations the slaves from Barbuda excelled in beauty. They brought high prices."

"Not now!" gasped Mona.

"Of course not now!" responded the girl indifferently. She smiled. "It was there I met Barry."

"And he—made love to you?" asked Lottiel.

The girl twisted and looked at her a moment. She smiled winningly. "No."

"Ah," Mona breathed.

"Barry did not make love to me. But I loved him. I tried to follow him." She shrugged. "So Maria, my maid, was sent to take me to Barbados. Here I learn English."

"You speak it very well."

"I am learning the English way," the girl said reprovingly.

THERE was a hue and cry outside and then a shout. Lottiel stepped to the door and stood against it.

"It's Maria and a couple of others. They want Celeste."

"Her parents are on board, aren't they?" asked Mona. "Certainly they are! They came back from the club in the tender when I came. They did not expect the daughter. I recall that they planned to visit her at her school after lunch. Lottiel, let her go. They are looking for her."

"But these clothes!" Celeste began wistfully.

"Look," said Lottiel suddenly, taking the girl by the shoulders. "Can you tell us where Barry is now?"

"Holiday Island, I think. That is where—"

"Where is Holiday Island?" asked Lottiel sharply.

"I don't know. It was an island. That's all. Barry bought it—"

"Celeste!" roared her father outside the door. "Are you there? Come out. No more nonsense!"

"You may have the dress," Lottiel said hurriedly. Unbuckling her wrist watch, she added, "And this." She motioned Mona to be still, took Barry's picture from the frame, slid it between the pages of a magazine and put it in the girl's arms. The hurry and flurry outside had subsided. The searchers were exploring the crew's quarters.

"Come with me," Lottiel said. "I'll take you down this way and get a boat for you. Maybe the quarter-master won't recognize you. Come!"

The quartermaster preferred not to recognize the crestfallen young lady who hung on Lottiel's arm and grasped a magazine convulsively. Lottiel secured a boat, gave the oarsmen two shillings and bade him shove off.

She watched while the little bark bobbed its way to the quay. "Now," she said to the quartermaster, "take this message to Celeste's father and that nurse. Tell them Mademoiselle has gone ashore."

Mona met her with a white face. "Look here," Lottiel began without waiting for her to speak, "if you are going to faint at every girl who is in love with Barry down here you'd better get a grip on yourself. That kid has a high school crush on Barry. She admits he didn't care for her and he probably didn't even know she was around. You know what men are when they go hunting?"

"I know what pretty French girls are when they go hunting!" responded Lottiel.

"Yes," but if we charter a plane we can fly back or down or across—wherever we most go—in no time!" Mona nodded miserably. "I'm glad I brought you along, Lottiel," she said meekly.

"Listen, Mona. I'm as anxious to see that dark-haired friend of Barry's as you are to find Barry."

"Are you in love with Steve?"

"Maybe. That remains to be seen! Come on, let's have tea."

The evening dragged. The girls went to the dance at the Aquatic Club to make the time pass more quickly. At midnight the party returned to the Miranda and at one o'clock she had cleared for Port of Spain.

But at Port of Spain Lottiel and Mona, in the kindly guidance of young Dr. Allen, failed to find the man who they hoped would direct them to Holiday Island. He had gone fishing at Gasparre and would not be back for several days.

"Then we'll stay several days," Mona decided.

They drove back to the quay for their baggage, took it through the customs and found a taxi.

"Let's drive through the park," suggested the doctor, smiling. "It is going to cost us the large sum of 12 cents!"

They drove up Frederick street and, skirting the Savanna, drew up at the Queen's Park Hotel.

"Tea," said Lottiel, indicating the cool open lobby which looked out on spreading saman trees. "I'm famished. Why, great heavens! Mona, do you see what I see?"

There, seated at a table, dressed in aviator's togs, and pensively sipping a cooling drink, sat Bud Moran.

MOTOR BANDITS KEEP SCOTLAND YARD ON ALERT

London Surrounded By Police Searching All Automobiles

London, Aug. 31—(AP)—Scotland Yard ringed London today with a blockade against "motor bandits."

Several hundred motor cars were stopped by policemen called secretly into action by Lord Chief Justice, Scotland Yard's chief.

At dawn the secrecy was still strictly maintained and it was not disclosed whether any arrests had been made in the most impressive coming out of its kind London has ever known.

The action was taken on the heels of demands for drastic methods to cope with increasing criminal violence. In recent months almost every day has brought fresh stories of brutal holdups and assaults by "motor gunmen" who cruise about in automobiles.

Lord Trenchard launched his blockade in the early morning hours. There were flying squads of speed cars and motorcycle patrolmen and a large force of patrolmen.

All the main approaches to London were posted, as were the bridges and important centers inside the city, and the orders were to halt every car, no matter what it looked like.

Hundreds of motorists were stopped and questioned, and their cars searched.

What This Farm Strike Is All About—No. 3

WORK HARD ALL YEAR—AND LOSE $2000, SAYS THIS AVERAGE FARMER

Pictures Plight Of Men
Now On Strike

EDITORS NOTE — This is the third in a series of five stories by Bruce Catton, staff writer for NEA Service and The Evening Telegraph, who was sent to the midwest corn belt to find out what the "farm strike" is all about.

BY BRUCE CATTON

Sioux City, Iowa — "You can go in debt $2,000 in one year to pay for the privilege of farming these days — and you work your head off besides."

In those words Fred Kriege, the president of the Nebraska Farmers' Holiday Association, explains why the farmers of his state are joining the Iowa farmers in the move to hold farm produce off of the markets until a better price has been won.

He stood by a fence in his farm yard as he spoke, and gestured with one hand toward his barns which needed paint, and his fences, which all needed manners of repairs somewhere.

"Look at that," he said. "Do you think I keep my property that way because I want to? Or, because I don't know any better? I'd like to keep my place up. But I haven't the money. Over there is my tractor. It's 10 years old. Instead of getting a new one this year I had to hunt around, find spare parts where I could, and patch it up."

"The farmer these days is existing — he isn't living. That's why this farm strike is going over so successfully. We're going to stick until we get what we want, and we'll stick if we have to guard the roads all winter."

"Every farmer around here, almost, feels the same way. You'll find fellows out there on the picket line who've been up 36 hours and more at a stretch. Fellows that go home and thresh for two days and then go out on the road to keep the trucks from moving. And we're making new converts every day."

"Any number of men whose trucks we have stopped, and who got good and sore about it, too, at first, but who have joined us now. And the people in Sioux City are with us. Why, one restaurant there in one day dished out 60 meals to the pickets. That's the sort of co-operation we're beginning to get."

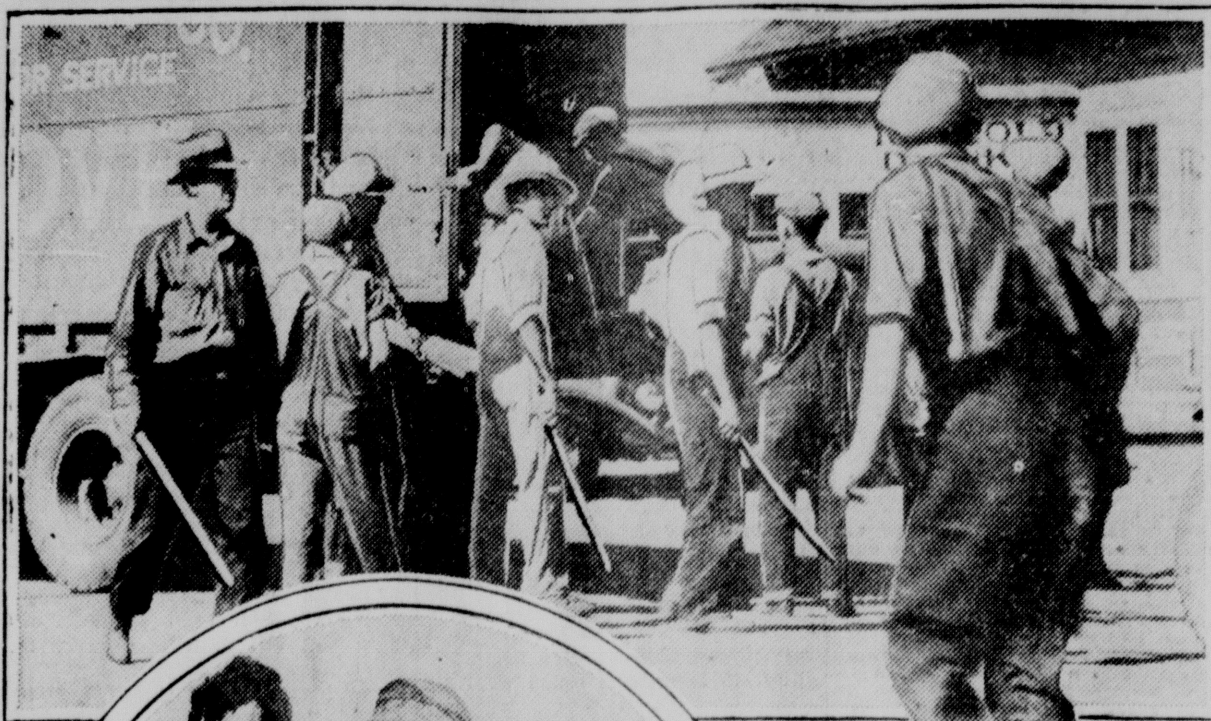

A number of fussy chickens, not yet fully grown, wandered across the farmyard, discussing something querulously. Kriege gestured at them.

"Look at them," Kriege said. "Not long ago we were paying 15 cents for baby chicks. Those chickens there, now—sell 'em at the market and you'll get around 18 cents apiece for them. Oh, well, we've had the fun of feeding them, but how about the cost of the feed, housing, etc?"

"You know they say the farmers troubles come because he is a poor business man. All I can say is this: the man who can buy at retail and sell at wholesale, as the farmer does, and still keep on living, is a business man and a damn smart one, too."

Beyond his barn stretched the green fields of his farm—beautiful fields, rich-looking, fertile, deep with grain.

"I'd be better off this year if I hadn't planted any grain at all, but had simply put in clover to keep down the weeds," he said. "That is what we're up against. We are losing money — good, hard cash — on our years work. Do you wonder why we farmers strike?

Working hard and going deeper into debt all the time — as the result of ruinously low prices for farm products — brought about scenes like the one above, explains Fred Kriege, below, a typical farmer. He is shown with his two daughters, Constance and Joan. In the upper picture, the striking farmers are shown halting a creamery truck en route to market at Sioux City.

Kriege, incidentally, went without sleep for two nights in a row in order to get the movement started right.

"This land around here, according to every analysis that has been made is the best farming land there is on earth. Why is everybody broke? Why is the countryside poverty stricken? God and nature didn't do it. Man did. The country will never recover economically unless the farmer recovers, because farming is the nation's basic industry. And the farmer won't recover until he finds some way of getting for the fruits of the earth a price that will enable him to hold his land, keep his property in decent condition and make a little profit."

"I have a debt of $200. I went to the bank to see about a loan. Do you know what they wanted for security? Seventy acres of barley!"

Kriege is a tall, muscular, good-natured. A university graduate, one-time football star and a qualified patent attorney. He is a farmer because he likes farming as a way of life. But he says he is not fond of paying $2000 a year for the privilege. So he is leading the movement to extend the farm strike across Nebraska.

"This strike isn't going to lead to any trouble — unless the other side starts it," he says. "The temper of the men is peaceful, but if the opposition wants to use other methods — watch out! We don't want it, but we're all ready for it if it comes."

"That the Nebraska farmers are quite as ready to band together as the farmers of northwestern Iowa was graphically demonstrated on the first day of the strike in Nebraska. The movement went into effect at 6 A. M.; by evening fully 1000 men were picketing the roads on the Nebraska side of the Missouri River, opposite Sioux City, within a 10-mile radius of the toll bridge that leads across the river.

Low Prices Don't Meet
Cost of Production

during the last five years is $8.46. Whether those figures are correct or not, they are at least accepted by a lot of farmers — which makes the strike easier to understand.

Getting down to present prices, figures for farm strike sources show the farmers are asking much more than they have been receiving for their products.

Figures for a certain recent date show the following:

HOGS: Market price, $4.50 per cwt.; farmers ask $11.25.

CATTLE: Market price, $9.35 per cwt.; farmers ask $10.40.

WHEAT: Market price, 45 cents a bushel; farmers ask $1.36.

CORN: Market price, 28 cents; farmers ask 92 cents.

OATS: Market price, 16 cents; farmers ask 49 cents.

Increases in the price of other farm products were included in the goal — and all this they hoped to win by means of the strike.

TOMORROW — A corn belt leader and a corn belt farm editor give their views of the strike and tell what the farmers are up against.

GOOD—THEY'VE GOT TO BE GOOD
Or They Couldn't Pass This Inspection
Chesterfield's Standard Demands That No Detail Be Overlooked

One of the most interesting machines in a Chesterfield factory is this almost human "making" machine, which stacks up 750 finished cigarettes a minute. End-on, the cigarette looks like a huge honey-comb. But the job isn't ended there, for white-gloved inspectors, eagle-eyed and expert from long practice, remove with tweezers each torn or imperfect Chesterfield. Every possible precaution is taken for cleanliness and perfection of product. Every 4½ minutes the air in the factories is changed. The cigarette paper is pure, and burn without taste or odor.

Good—they've got to be Good!
